

Project Manager

About the role

When you're working on new builds, you would know that it's not the hard work on foundations, structure and compliance that people see - it's the facade. That's where the glory is.

Our client has been specialising in this part of the build for 40+ years so they know what it's all about. They're a market leader in their field, an innovator in the industry and a growing force in nationwide construction.

Right now, they're looking for a Project Manager to join the team and help them keep building the excellent brand and reputation they have.

You will be;

- Reporting to the Senior Auckland Project Manager
- Managing all aspects of Facade and aluminium joinery installations
- Taking responsibility for H&S and company vision/ideals
- Liaising with clients & the Operations Team
